

GetGenome Newsletter

January 2025

We are pleased to present the January 2025 edition of our monthly newsletter, providing a snapshot of GetGenome's progress and key highlights. Remember, you can find all our monthly newsletters here- <https://getgenome.net/network>. The main highlights this month include:

All the best for 2025!

From everyone at GetGenome, we would like to wish you all a successful 2025! This year promises to be another exciting one at GetGenome so do stay up to date with all GetGenome activities on our website and across social media.

Genomics For All seminars

GetGenome seminars are free and open to everyone. Please use the QR code to discover and register for upcoming live events. Registration is required and spaces are limited but if you cannot make the seminar, you can also explore our library of recorded sessions.

connecting the genomics community

- Online and interactive
- Accessible to all
- Genomics focus

Dr Amal Boukteb

National Institute for Agricultural Research of Tunisia

"From Genomes to Solutions: Bioinformatics Approaches to Unravel the Vicia faba /Orobanche foetida Interaction"

Thursday, 23 January 2025 (23/01/2025)

10:00-11:00 UK / GMT (11:00-12:00 Tunis / CET)

Constantine Science Bridges Webinars

GetGenome had the privilege of joining the Constantine Science Bridges community this month to deliver a webinar: Unlocking post-genomic potential across the global South. It was a pleasure to interact with this dynamic group providing lots of learning opportunities for early-career researchers.

GGLatAm2024 CFP update

GetGenome delivered over 50 whole genome sequences to researchers across Latin America in January. That's well over 300 million assembled bases provided to 14 researchers in the region. The first workshop to further support awardees will be delivered later this month.

GGSouthAsia2024 CFP update

We want to thank all the researchers who applied for GetGenome support via the GGSouthAsia2024 Call For Projects. The deadline has now passed, and all applicants will be contacted shortly.

